

Dear Ministry Partners,

July, 2025

This week we "entertained angels unawares" (Hebrews 13:2). From the moment they arrived, they sought to help us fix things. At first, I politely declined. but broken things I had already made peace with began popping up in my mind. With single-minded focus, they sharpened all dull knives, fixed fallen vertical blinds, completely repaired the van's drooping side mirror and hanging microwave button, and built 80% of the backdrop to the tablescape for my LA County Fair entry next year! They also helped us buy and pair Apple tags for future lost things. Thank God for repairers of broken things and finders of lost things! Thank the Lord for Mark and Vivian Shu from Boston with whom we also shared sweet times of fellowship over a 4th of July BBQ and fireworks with the Chong's, Vicky (Hsi) Ng & family, and neighbors, as well as a lovely night out provided by Boston friends of Layman's Foundation. How tangibly we felt the love of God through the love of His people!

We were also blessed to attend Ethel Newell's Celebration of Life ceremony where we witnessed that a life well-lived is one which loved well. May we be His "angels" who love well.

Again, we want to thank you for loving us well through your prayers and gifts,

Miltinnie, Lee and Jansen

P.S. Please check out Mike Guo's excellent Raise a Resilient Child in 7 steps, for which I had the privilege of writing a whole-hearted endorsement.
